COMMUNIST ASSASSINATIONS

Most murders are committed either in the heat of passion, or as ancillary to other crimes such as robbery or rape, or as the irrational act of a criminal psychopath. A different and very special type of murder took place recently when the Bolivian Ambassador to France was shot to death at point-blank range in broad daylight as he walked to his car near his home in Paris. The murder of General Joaquin Zenteno Anaya proves anew that the international Communists have assassination squads with an unparalleled capacity for painstaking planning, patience, and perseverance.

The reason Generalzentenowas targeted for execution was that he had been in charge of the Bolivian government forces that tracked down and killed the famous Communist Che Guevara in 1967 while Che was attempting a takeover of Bolivia similar to the Castro conquest of Cuba. That was in 1967, nine years ago. The Communists never forgive and never forget; they planned, they waited for their chance, and ther got their man.

The prime historical example of a careful, calculated, and cunning assassination by the Communists was the murder of Leon Trotsky with an ice-axe in Mexico City on August 20, 1940. A top Communist himself, Trotsky knew he was targeted for liquidation, and he was highly resourceful in guarding himself against the ruthless and relentless tactics he had helped to develop in Russia.

But even the brilliant Trotsky, who possessed one of the largest brains in history, was outwitted by the Communist murder squads.

'['he international Communist murder squads have many specialized variations in their arsenal of tricks. The courageous Ukrainian leader Stefan Bandera was eliminated by a technique called Hsilent assassination tn which a poisonous spray was discharged into his face.

'£he Danish diplomat at the UN, Paul Bang-Jensen, who had made headlines by refusing to make public a list of 81 witnesses to the Tied Army's invasion of Hungary in 1956 whom the Commw1ists wanted to arrest, was killed by the technique of murder-disguised-as-suicide. Another murder-suicide was used to liquidate the young American Bible i:rnlf•sman, Newcomb Mott, in 1965 while he was being transported on a :3oviet prison train to a slave labor camp after being arrested on a trumped-up charge.

As Whittaker Chambers once commented, "Any fool can commit a murder, but it takes an artist to co1W1i t a good nataral deutf:."

The Communist murder squads even. operate inside the Uni t1Hd :.:tates. In. addition to killing Bang- rc-nsen on Long Island, the Communists :murdered former Party member Juli.et Poyntz in Central Park, New York, 1937. The Communist gestapo murdered General Walter I.,rivitsky in a Washington, D.C. hotel roo in 1940 after he defected fro r:1,(,sta, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, And asked to be baptised in the Fptscopal Church.

It used to be said. that crime does not pay. The Communists have made murder highly profitable in advancing their worldwide conquests !HH.i in intimidating both oppon r.i.ts and defectors.
